We are pleased to present the Third issue of Volume 13 of the ABAC ODI Journal: Vision. Action. Outcome. This issue features 19 articles contributed by authors whose scholarly works provide valuable and high-quality knowledge sharing across diverse topics and processes.

The articles employ a range of research designs, including quantitative research, model building, mixed-methods research, qualitative research, and action research. The topics addressed span organizational development, education, educational leadership and management, teaching and learning processes, change management in governance, tourism and hotel management, psychology, innovative technology management, and counselling psychology, and the sustainability of teams and organizations.

It is our hope that this issue adds meaningful value to the existing body of knowledge across various disciplines. The contributing authors present a rich array of research methods, findings, and conclusions that support future research and offer practical recommendations beneficial to teams and organizations as applied learning for continuous improvement.

We sincerely appreciate all the authors who have chosen to publish their research in the ABAC ODI Journal: Vision. Action. Outcome. We also extend our heartfelt thanks to the Editorial Advisory Board, Editorial Board, and the Editorial Team, as well as our expert peer reviewers, for their continued support, dedication, and engagement.

Thank you very much.
